La Pérouse Hotel  - Nice Côte d'Azur

New design, new kitchens...& new Chef :

Damien Andrews appointed to head up the Patio Restaurant & Terrasse

Nestled on one of the most beautiful terraces in Nice, the Patio Restaurant & Terrasse of the Hôtel La Pérouse Nice* is getting a makeover as part of the major renovation programme of the luxurious boutique hotel.

Chef Damien Andrews is taking over the kitchens of the Patio Restaurant and its citrus and sun-soaked terrace to share his culinary experience.

Disciple of Escoffier

Member of the association of Escoffier's disciples since 2022, Chef Damien Andrews is dedicated to cooking. "Cooking is more than a job, it's a real passion. I get up every morning with the desire to surpass myself, to go even further in my dreams. But also, to pass them on to my teams, as well as to our guests, so that they experience the best possible moments at the table of Le Patio." It's a state of mind that Damien Andrews puts to good use at the Patio Restaurant & Terrasse, where he wants to share his love of the Côte d'Azur region and his experience gained in some of the best brigades on the Côte d'Azur. In particular with Michelin starred Chef Patrick Raingeard, with whom he worked as his right-hand man, at the Port Palace in Monaco in 2009 and at the Hôtel Cap Estel restaurant in 2013.

Sharing, refinement and skill on the menu

At the head of the Patio Restaurant & Terrasse, Damien Andrews highlights the tastes and flavors of the local Nice region and the Mediterranean Sea. On the menu, pleasure as much as skill, delightful sharing plates but also: a carpaccio of sea bream with raspberry and ginger, a slow-cooked monkfish with purple artichokes and Nice olives, a good 1.5kg beef tomahawk accompanied by a homemade béarnaise, and to finish on a sweet note, a yogurt cloud with red fruits. So many gourmet suggestions that put the menu in tune with the setting, resolutely privileged with its "Riviera Chic" decoration and its secret Mediterranean garden.
